

Dr. Chrystel Marton is a pharmacist and a researcher in the Hematology Unit at the Lille University Hospital in France. She focused on the development of more effective adoptive cancer immunotherapy during her PharmD and PhD studies. Today, she's contributing to CAR-T cell point-of-care manufacturing. Her aim is to set up and develop an academic production unit at the Lille University Hospital.